WHEREAS

- The Milan Urban Food Policy Pact (MUFPP), launched and chaired by the Milan Municipality, is the main international legacy of the Milan Expo 2015 “Feeding the Planet, Energy for Life”, being an international agreement amongst mayors around the world that consider food as a gateway to the sustainable development of cities. The signatory cities committed themselves “to develop sustainable food systems that are inclusive, resilient, safe and diverse, that provide healthy and affordable food to all people in a human rights-based framework, that minimize waste and conserve biodiversity while adapting to and mitigating impacts of climate change”. It represents the foundational framework for cities and international stakeholders working to shape innovative urban food policies for the management and governance of local food systems. Currently, the Milan Pact brings together more than 240 signatory cities from all over the world.
- The Universitas Katolik Parahyangan (Parahyangan Catholic University, or UNPAR) is one of the oldest and most prestigious private universities in Indonesia, located in Bandung. Founded in 1955, it manages 7 faculties on economics, law, social and political sciences, engineering, philosophy, industrial technology and information technology involving 11,000 students.
- The Milan Urban Food Policy Pact is composed by a preamble and a Framework for Action listing 37 recommended actions, clustered in 6 categories. For each recommended action, there are specific indicators (for a total of 44 indicators) to monitor progress in implementing the Pact’s priorities. The Milan Pact Awards, promoted by the Municipality of Milan and Criplo Foundation, offer concrete examples of the food policies that cities are implementing in each of the 6 Pact categories. To date, 621 food policy best practices have been collected within the MUFPP community since 2016.
- The MUFPP and the UNPAR started working together in 2020, introducing the MUFPP to the city of Bandung and starting to co-design a strategy to engage other cities in the region. In 2021, UNPAR supported the city of Bandung in presenting its candidacy for the MUFPP Steering Committee and in 2022 it supported the city in the organization and management of the 1st Asia Pacific Regional Forum that over the 2 days engaged 390 participants, of which 76 city representatives within the framework of Indonesia’s G20 presidency.
